EMPLOYED CAREGIVER SURVEY

Find out how family
caregiving is affecting your workplace.

DID YOU KNOW?

Balancing work and family caregiving responsibilities is extremely common, and can be stressful. Approximately 40 million Americans are providing care to an adult family member or friend with an illness or disability, and nearly 60% of them (approximately 24 million adults) also work a paying job. Not only do employed caregivers experience high levels of stress, their dual roles also have career and work-related impacts.

EMPLOYER IMPACT

- More than six in ten employed caregivers report making workplace accommodations such as using flex time, reducing work hours, or quitting work entirely.
- Without adequate support, both working caregivers and their employers suffer.
- The magnitude of missed work from the employer's standpoint translates into an estimated loss of more than 120 million workdays each year, and the equivalent of $25.2 billion in lost productivity.
